ABOUT THE BOOK

Leveraging the Genetics of Leadership, cracking the code of sustainable team performance, revolutionizes archaic models of organizational leadership. Dan Edds provides through personal interviews and in-depth case studies how elite organizations have abandoned reliance on the transformative leader. Instead, they custom design a transformative system of leadership. The result is an organizational DNA that will transform the experience of the workforce and unleash their basic human capacities for creativity and innovation.

For twenty-five years, Daniel Edds has supported the public sector, health-care, nonprofit, K-12, banking, and higher-ed organizations as a management consultant. He holds a Master of Business Administration in International Business from the Alber's School of Business and Economics at Seattle University. Dan is a Kaplan Norton Balanced Scorecard graduate and certified Lean practitioner. He has also held the Project Manager Professional certificate and is an experienced Baldrige Examiner through the Alliance program.

While 'systemic leadership' is a new buzzword in business and management schools around the world, Daniel comes straight from the sharp end of practice and delivers one of the most clearly written books I have seen in a while – with systemic insight, but unencumbered by jargon. Read and enjoy!"
